SHOPFLOOR MATTERS

Four jobs that still run on paper

And what changes when they go digital

Checklists

From a clipboard to a checklist that appears because this order is starting on this line.

Shift handover

From a chat at the door to a handover built from what actually ran, stopped and is waiting.

Skills

From a spreadsheet to a check that stops an unqualified operator starting the job.

Work instructions

From a printout in a folder to the latest version, on the screen, at the point of work.

The goal: a new starter gets it right on their second day, not their second year.

YOUR TURN

Which of the four is still on paper in your factory?
