Buying predictive AI before fixing your data...

...is like fitting a turbo to a car with flat tyres.

Matt Barber · shopfloormatters.com

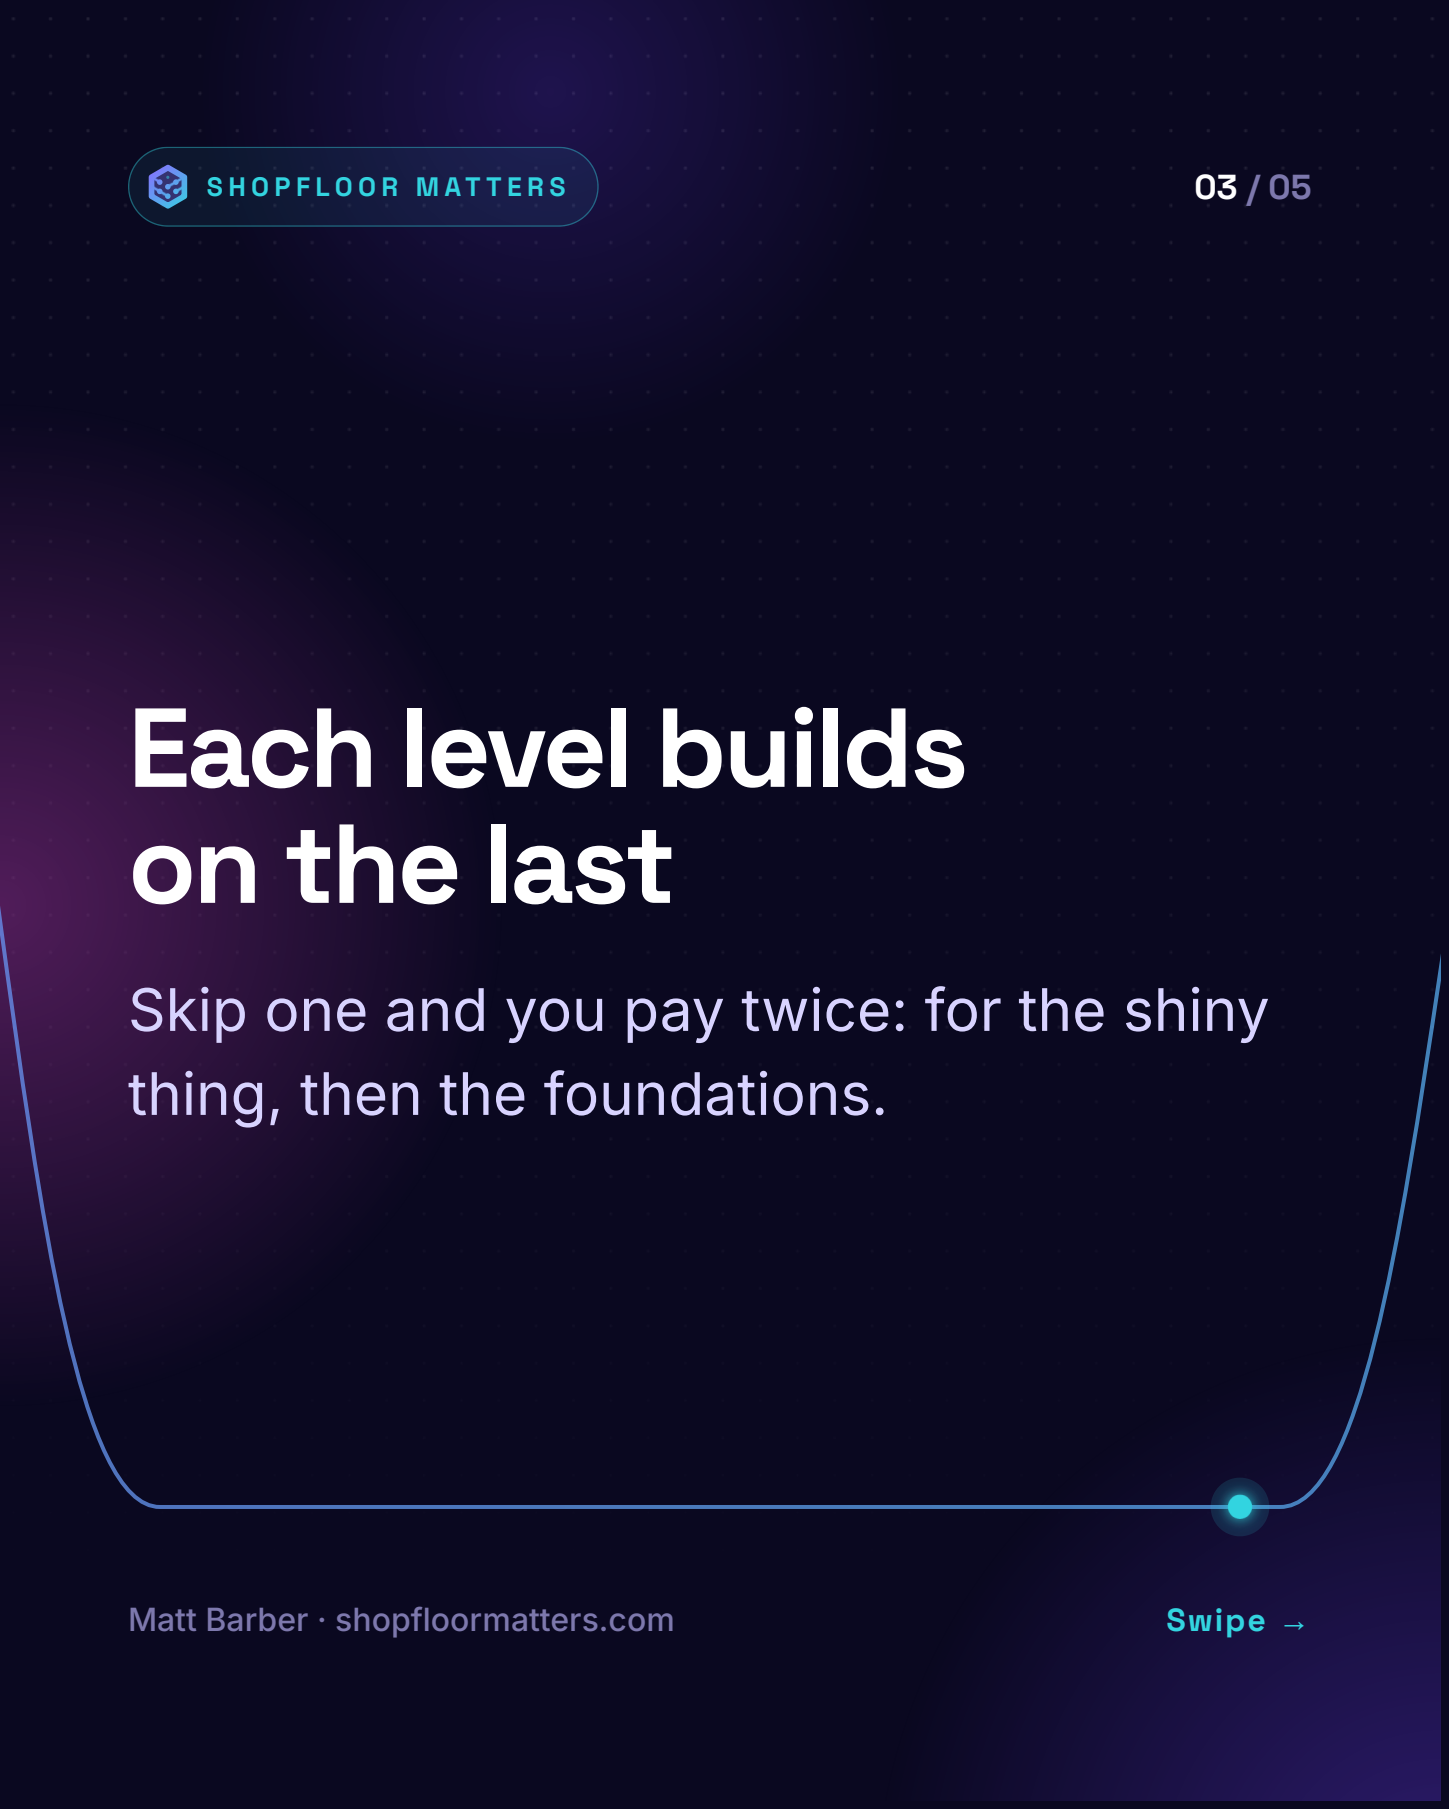

Swipe →

Impressive purchase

It just won't get you anywhere faster.

Each level builds on the last

Skip one and you pay twice: for the shiny thing, then the foundations.

Fix the tyres first

Automatic data capture, with context.
Then the turbo is worth having.

YOUR TURN

Where would your money go further this year?